Train Time Changed

A new train schedule went into effect on Monday on the C. P. R. Calgary Edmonton branch. The milk train (13.15) is a few minutes later in arriving at Didsbury and the afternoon north train is about one hour earlier.

This is the new schedule:

Going south—5.46; 13.15; 19.55.
Going north—9.53; 15.43; 1.41.

"The Potato" is the title of a publication being sent out by the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, which contains some very useful information for potato growers. If you write the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, for pamphlet No. 2 on Potatoes you can get one.

Council Meets

A regular meeting of the Council was held on Monday night at the Council chambers. There was some difficulty in getting a quorum of the Councillors but finally enough were rounded up to transact business. Mayor Osmond, Councillors Herber, Wood, Reed, Secretary Brusso and Solicitor Austin present. Councillors Chambers, Paton and Sinclair absent.

There were some accounts in the hands of the Secretary but they were laid over.

The date for the Court of Revision was the first and most important taken up. It was decided that the Court should sit on July 3rd.

Considerable trouble has been caused by pigs running at large in the south end of town and the Mayor, Councillors Reed and Wood and Secretary Brusso was appointed a committee to interview the owner. (This committee interviewed the owner on Tuesday and he has taken steps to overcome the nuisance and promised to take all means of keeping his stock of pigs within the bounds of his permit.)

Some of the laneways are in bad shape because of manure piles, the police reporting no less than 32 rate-payers who are not keeping their part of the lane clean in spite of repeated warnings.

On motion the police were instructed to have the lanes cleaned up and the cost of the same charged to the property owners.

Mr. Levi Snyder asked permission to erect a box for manure on the laneway at the back of his property, same not to be more than three feet wide.

On motion it was decided to allow Mr. Snyder's application same to be removed at the discretion of the Council.

Another matter that was taken up was the emptying of cesspools in the day time. A large number of complaints have been made regarding this matter for some time and the Council decided that there should be some regulation governing this.

On motion the Sanitation Bylaw was amended and the new amendment calls for these places to be emptied between the hours of 9.30 p.m. and sunrise. The penalty being the same as for any other infringement of the Bylaw.

Dr. G. M. Reid wrote asking for a sidewalk to his office on Shantz Ave.

The question of what kind of sidewalk should be put down was discussed, the Council being of the unanimous opinion that if any were laid they should be of cement if there was not too much difference in cost.

On motion it was decided to call for tenders for 300 feet of four-foot cement or board or plank sidewalk.

This includes a piece of sidewalk passed by the Council some time ago in line with Dr. Reid's running north on Shantz Ave. A definite knowledge of the costs of the different walks will thus be obtained.

The chairman of the Property Committee stated that as the Town tools were getting worn out by borrowers he had arranged a schedule of fees for the use of said tools which the committee had put into force, and wished the Council to ratify. The fees are 25c a day for small scrapers; 50c a day for wheel scraper and $5.00 per day for grader. The Council, on motion, adopted this report.

The Council then adjourned.

Meeting of Red Cross

A business meeting of the Red Cross Society was held on Saturday last, the President, Mrs. J. E. Stauffer in the chair.

The meeting was well attended and the affairs of the Society were found to be in excellent condition. An offer from Mr. H. W. Chambers relative to serving ice cream and cake at his store through the summer months on Friday afternoon's, a percentage of the receipts to be handed over to the Red Cross, was discussed. Mr. Chambers offer was accepted.

The Society decided to send on the sum of $80 to head-quarters for the purchase of surgical supplies which are greatly needed.

The sum of $50 given by Mr. Alex. Robertson, of Westcott, a few weeks ago will be invested in a hospital cot as more are needed.

The Society sent the following articles to head-quarters through May: 7 doz. bandages; 2 dozen service handkerchiefs; 6 knitted wash cloths; 6 pairs socks; 8 pairs bed socks; 15 surgical nightdresses; 20 pairs of socks from Room 3, Public school (Miss Kerr's room.)

Are Playing Good Ball

The local boys came out victorious in a very interesting game of ball on the home grounds Monday. It was the most evenly matched contest and the best exhibition of the game seen in the league this season, snap being shown by both sides in their efforts to win out. A very fair attendance was had and the enthusiasm shown would give one the idea that if rooting is going to help our boys win the pennant in the race they will surely be well aided when appearing at home. And we might add, here, that everyone has high hopes of a good showing the balance of the schedule as the boys, one and all, are showing much better form. Clint Reiber who was at the receiving end was put out of the game early, meeting with an accident. He had the flesh between his first and second finger of the right hand badly torn.

Pain In the Side, Chest, or Back Aching Muscles Cured Quickly

Even Doctors Marvel at the Penetrating Power of Good Old "Nerviline"

Pains anywhere—in the chest, neck, side, back or muscles—they are always a discomfort.

If the inflammation is severe, the pain will be intense. If allowed to continue, complications will follow.

Physicians say one of the best remedies is "Nerviline"—it can't help curing, because it penetrates through the sore tissues, carrying healing properties that destroy every symptom of pain.

In case of colds, sore chest and pleurisy, there should be a good hand-rubbing with Nerviline, and, of course, to prevent the trouble coming back, it's advisable to put on a Nerviline Porous

Plaster, which, by absorption through the skin, draws out all congestion.

For general household use, for curing the ailments of the young and old, for destroying all pain, outward or inward, nothing can excel Nerviline; thousands testify to this effect.

For nearly forty years Nerviline has been a renowned and trusted remedy in thousands of homes where practically no medicine is needed.

Nerviline is safe to use. For children's coughs, colds and sore throat nothing can be used with more certain results.

Get the large, 50 cent family size bottle today. It is more economical than the 25 cent trial size, and is sure to keep down the doctor's bill and cure a host of minor ills that arise in every household.

All dealers sell Nerviline, or direct from the Catarthozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

Rifle Range in London Park

Coutts Employees Practice Firing Among Old Ledgers

One of the quaintest of the new rifle ranges with which London has been recently furnished is that situated in the top story of Coutts Bank, in the Strand. A long room devoted to the storage of the ledgers of a hundred years, old worm-eaten tomes arranged on either side in serried rows, has been transformed into a most useful range, where Coutts young men practice rifle firing of an evening.

SICKLY CHILDREN PROMPTLY CURED

Baby's Own Tablets are an ideal medicine for little ones. They regulate the bowels and stomach and promptly cure constipation, indigestion, cold and simple fevers, expel worms, cure colic and give baby health and happiness. Concerning them Mrs. Fred VanGorder, Dunnville, Ont., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my four children and find they always give perfect satisfaction." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

More Production Is Needed

What we should direct our attention to in this country now is the increased production rather than increased acreage. The farmers of Germany have long since learned this lesson. In twenty years they have increased the average yield of the five leading crops, viz., wheat, rye, oats, barley and potatoes 61.9 per cent. The average yield of wheat of 21.2 bushels from 1886 to 1895 was increased to 31.8 bushels for the years 1906 to 1910. The production of potatoes for the same period was increased from 130 to 210.1 bushels. The yield of the same crops in the United States for the same period increased 19.8 per cent, wheat 12.7 bushels to 14.7, potatoes 73.2 bushels to 96.9. The average production of 210.1 bushels of potatoes, by the German farmers at 55.3 cents, the average price to the Iowa farmer, making an acre yield of $116.18 should look good to any Iowa farmer. Bulletin, Niles and Watters Saving Bank, Anamosa, Iowa.

The Oil of the People.—Many oils have come and gone, but Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil continues to maintain its position and increase its sphere of usefulness each year. Its sterling qualities have brought it to the front and kept it there, and it can truly be called the oil of the people. Thousands have benefited by it and would use no other preparation.

"What a wonderful painter Rubens was!" remarked Mr. Gibbs at the art gallery.

"Yes," assented Mrs. Gibbs. "It's said of him that he could change a laughing face into a sad one by a single stroke."

"Why," spoke up Willie, in disgust, "my schoolmaster can do that."

Was Troubled for Years With Kidney Disease

And This Treatment Cured Me—This Statement Endorsed
By a Baptist Minister.

The great majority of people are familiar with the extraordinary curative powers of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. But for the benefit of those who are not we continue to publish from day to day reports from persons who have been actually cured.

The case described in this letter was an extreme one, and the writer was in a very low condition when he began the use of these pills. The cure was so marked that Mr. Mosher's pastor did not hesitate to vouch for his statement.

By their unique combined action on the liver, kidneys and bowels, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure in complicated cases which defy the action of ordinary kidney medicines.

Mr. W. H. Mosher, Brockville, Ont., writes:—"I used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and firmly believe there is no medicine to equal them. I was troubled for years with kidney disease, and this treatment has cured me. When I began the use of these pills I could only walk from my bed to a chair. Now I can go to the field and work like any other man. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are an excellent medicine."

This statement is certified to by the Rev. E. H. Emmet, Baptist minister of Brockville, Ont.

By awakening the action of liver, kidneys and bowels Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure Constipation, Headaches, Chronic Indigestion, Kidney Disease, Liver Complaint and Backache. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

The Best Seed

Varieties of Grain For the Prairie Provinces

Dr. Charles E. Saunders, Dominion cerealist, recommends the following varieties of grain for the Prairie Provinces:

Spring wheat: Red Fife best in dry areas, but Marquis where rainfall is sufficient; for earliness and longer straw, Huron and Early Red Fife are suggested for test. Prelude will find favor for earliness, and where the tendency is towards excessively long straw. In dry districts where earliness is needed, Pioneer will probably give satisfaction.

Oats: Banner and Ligowo; Daubeny eight day, or the common commercial sort. Orloff, if extreme earliness is required, provided the climate is not extra dry.

Barley: Manhattan and Ontario Agriculture College No. 21, six-rowed varieties; Canadian Thorpe, Duckbill and Early Chevalier worth testing.

Peas: Arthur, earliest ripening; Prussian Blue, Golden Vine, Chancellor and English Grey, if to be cut green and grown with oats.

Cultivation

Few Soils That Are Not Benefitted by Deep Cultivation

On many farms the depth of the cultivated soil is frequently limited to six, or thereabouts. The soil is turned over year after year, and the pan or hard surface of the subsoil remains untouched; consequently it is submitted neither to the air nor sunlight, both of which so materially assist in its decomposition, and in preparing it for the roots of plants. There are few soils that are not benefited by breaking the pan and stirring—in a word, deep cultivation, care being taken, however, not to bring up the subsoil to the surface. On farm land (excepting, of course, those isolated spots where you have a deep, well drained fertile land of a sandy nature stocked with humus) it is a good plan to turn up with each ploughing, say, half an inch to an inch of new soil each year until the land is sown down in pasture again. The greatest agents we have to help in breaking down a stiff furrow are time, heat, and cold—atmospheric conditions; then use the old style of grubber and heavy line harrows, using the modern spring-tooth cultivator if there are not enough horses on the farm to pull the genuine article. In rare, very rare, cases it may be harmless to throw the subsoil on top of the furrow; but in the writer's experience it has in every instance wrought incalculable harm and irreparable damage.

I was very sick with Quinsy and thought I would strangle. I used MINARD'S LINIMENT and it cured me at once. I am never without it now.

Nauwigawauk, Oct. 21st.

Singapore, where an incipient mutiny was recently suppressed, was virtually founded in 1819 by Sir Stamford Raffles, the brilliant son-in-law of the Sultan of Johore, who on his return to England, helped to found the "Zoo." The riot must have aroused deep indignation in a colony so wonderfully free from crime that there are no windows to the houses, and no fastenings to the doors, even at hotels.

Sleeplessness.—Sleep is the great restorer and to be deprived of it is vital loss. Whatever may be the cause of it, indigestion, nervous derangement or mental worry, try a course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. By regulating the action of the stomach, where the trouble lies, they will restore normal conditions and healthful sleep will follow. They exert a sedative force upon the nerves and where there is unrest they bring rest.

"Good morning, Mrs. Clancy," said a friend, "and how's the family?" "They're all doing well," said Mrs. Clancy, "with the exception of me, old man. He's been enjoyin' poor health now for some time, but this mornin' he complained of feelin' better."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Take this in liquid or tablet form as a tonic.

Mrs. Kate D. Richardson, of Beazley, Essex Co., Va., says, "I esteem it a pleasure to testify to the wonderful curative qualities of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For some years I suffered greatly with weakness. I was treated by several physicians but gradually grew worse. One of my friends told me of the good results of your 'Favorite Prescription.' I went to the drug store and got a bottle, and after taking it, with the 'Pleasant Pellets,' I commenced to get better. I never knew what happiness was, for I was always sick and complaining and made others as well as myself unhappy. So you see what a debt I owe you!"

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate stomach, liver, bowels

War and Live Stock

In the area of the fiercest fighting the density of the cattle population is the greatest on earth. It is to be assumed that Belgium is stripped of its live stock. Northeastern France must suffer heavily. While in Germany and Austria, particularly the former, not enough feed is produced to sustain the live stock, and if imports are cut off there is only one recourse—send the animals to the slaughter. That this is being done is evidenced by the boast that meat is comparatively cheap in Germany. Scarcity and high price of feed would be followed by cheap meat for a season. But after that must come the day of reckoning. Swine can quickly recuperate from such a drastic liquidation, but it is a slow and expensive matter to build up a herd of cattle, even if the breeding stock is obtainable.—Wall Street Journal.

Corns are caused by the pressure of tight boots, but no one need be troubled with them long when so simple a remedy as Holloway's Corn Cure is available.

Greek Surnames

To the average man the names of the new Greek ministers may prove bewildering, but to the initiated they reveal a good deal. Until after the War of Liberation a century ago few of the Greek population had surnames, and a recent generation created their patronymics by various methods, but generally by adopting the name of their successors have added the terminal "opontos," "ides," "akes," or "akos," equivalent to our English "son." Most Greek surnames summarize the family history.—London Chronicle.

Poultry in Manitoba

The poultry industry of Manitoba is growing. In 1914 the farmers of that province sold 815,852 chickens as compared with 777,808 chickens in 1913. In 1914 they sold 184,236 turkeys and 81,720 geese as compared with 176,964 turkeys and 79,940 geese in 1913. But where are the ducks? No reports have been given.

"Every time Billinger goes in bathing he gets cramps."

"I should think it would worry his wife."

"It did. But she's fixed him all right. She made a bathing suit for him and declared he must wear it every time he goes in."

"Well?"

"And now he won't go near the water."

Apprehensive

Quite recently the New York State Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association put their fears into concrete form in the declaration that "the events of the last twelve months have created a situation more grave than has ever before confronted our trade. Formerly we were called upon to oppose town and county option. Today we must combat state and nationwide prohibition. Originally our opponents were few and scattered. Today they are many and united."

Beer A Poison

The man who uses a quart of beer daily expends enough for it to buy three loaves of bread for his family. He gets for himself a trivial amount of nourishment worth half a cent and incidentally takes into his system nearly two ounces of a narcotic poison, the influence of which is to make him less alert and therefore more amenable to accidents, to make him less efficient and therefore more likely to lose his job, and to make him more likely to suffer from toxins and infections.—Winfield Scott Hall, M. D.

Home Owners

It is interesting to note that the four western states carrying last fall for prohibition are "home-owning" states, the majority of the families owning their own homes, which doubtless helped bring about the logical result of the vote. In Colorado 56 per cent own their own homes; in Washington 54.5 per cent, in Arizona 57.5 per cent, and in Oregon 58.7 per cent.

Who Lifted The Lid off Hell?

(The following scathing indictment of the German emperor was written by Elbert Hubbard and published as a supplement to his magazine, 'The Philistine', of last January. That the horrors which Mr. Hubbard saw in militarism were afterward visited upon himself when he and his wife went to their death among those massacred in the Lusitania, lends an unusual tragic note to Mr. Hubbard's article.)

If any one asks, "Who Lifted the Lid Off Hell?" let the truthful answer be, "William Hohenzollern."

He is a mastoid degenerate of a noble grandmother.

In a degree he has her power, but not her love. He has her persistence, but not her prescience.

He never wrote a letter nor a message wherein he did not speak of God as if the Creator were waiting to see him in the lobby. "God is with us" "God is destroying our enemies"—"I am praying our God to be with you"—"God is giving us victories"—"I am accountable only to my conscience and to God"

This belief that the maker of the universe takes a special interest in him marks the man as a megalomaniac, and the idea that the Nations "were 'laying for him'" is the true symptom of paranoia.

His talk of a Slav invasion is stuff, subtle and sly, to divert attention from his own crafty designs.

His interest in farming was a pose—his encouragement of business a subterfuge.

Every farmer between 14 and 60 years of age has been drafted into the ranks to be food for vultures.

Every farm horse that could carry a man or draw a load has been seized.

All beef cattle have been appropriated.

Every penny in every savings bank in Germany has been levied upon, and a "receipt" given to the starving holder. This loss of a life-time's savings means death to multitudes of old people, of widows, children, invalids and cripples.

The money a man might have left to care for his widow, orphans, aged parents, is swept away in the maelstrom of blood.

Old age pensions, sick benefits and life insurance are only dreams.

We are told that the Kaiser kept the peace for forty-three years. True, just waiting for this stroke at world dominion.

Every male child born in that forty-three years, who can now carry a gun, is taken from useful work, and made to do the obscene lidding of this sad, mad, bad, bloody monster.

In Germany today, no bands play in the public parks; all savings banks are closed; commercial banks pay or not, as the war minister orders; all insurance companies—both life and fire are bankrupt; colleges are turned into hospitals—all students are at the front; factories are closed; laboratories are memorios.

All the progress of the last forty-three years lies a jumbled, tumbled mass of fears and tears in the dust and dirt of the gladiatorial arena. All the wealth gained in that forty-three years is already lost, dissolved in a mulch of festering human flesh.

Caligula, that royal pagan pervert, was kind compared with the Kaiser.

Nero, the fiddling fiend, with his carelessness in the use of fire, never burned property in all his pestilential career worth one-half that destroyed when the Kaiser's troops applied the torch to storied Louvain.

What has been done before may be done again. The "Thirty Years War" reduced Germany to Cannibalism. The old and crippled were knocked on the head and eaten.

Women and children toiled in the fields like beasts of burden to raise crops to feed the people.

Family names were lost, destroyed, forgotten.

A new order prevailed.

To commemorate the dead was a crime.

Why do the German people stand by the war lord?

The answer is easy. It is a matter of the hypnotic spell of patriotism and the lure of the crowd, combined with coercion.

We make a virtue of the thing we are compelled to do.

The marvelous recuperative power of the Teutonic people is proved by the fact that the German race was not wiped out of existence long ago, like the Incas or the Aztecs. The will to live was strong and a new race was ours.

Are we to go back to that black night of bloody medievalism.

Surely not! Our hearts are with Germany—the Germany of invention, science, music, education, skill—but not with the war lord. The emperor does not represent the true Germany. He symbolizes the lust of power, the thirst for blood.

The crazy Kaiser will not win. The wisdom of the world backs the allies, and Saint Helena awaits.

It must be so.

Germany will not be subjugated, but she will be relieved of a succubus that has threatened her very existence. May the day speedily come.

"Very, well," Geoffrey said carelessly. He was getting used to these strange quick appearances and these equally strange requests. "It shall be as you desire, uncle."

Ralph nodded. He gave a swift turn of his head as if looking for some one unconsciously, then he crossed the room and stooped down beside the brass-bound box, which was at the bottom of a pile of packages. His long fingers felt over the quaint brasses. "A most remarkable looking pattern," said Geoffrey.

"It is not a pattern at all," Ralph replied.

"The quaint filigree work is a language—the written signs of old Tibet, only you are not supposed to know that; indeed, I only found it out myself a few days ago. It had been a long search; but, as I can only see with my fingers, you can understand that. But this is part of the secret," Geoffrey was profoundly interested. "Tell me what the language says?" he asked.

"Not now—perhaps not at all. It is a ghastly and terrible thing, and even your nerves are not fireproof. There is only one thing I have to ask you before I leave myself for the present. When you take up that box to carry it down stairs it is to slip through your fingers. You are to drop it."

"I am to drop that box. Is there anything else?"

"Not for the present. You are smiling; I feel that you are smiling. For Heaven's sake take this seriously; take everything that I say seriously, boy. Oh, I know what is in your mind—I am going in a clumsy way to get something. I might so easily get what I require by a little judicious burglary. That is what your unsophisticated mind tells you. Later you will know better."

Ralph turned cheerfully round and left the room. He paused in the doorway. "Don't forget," he said, "that my visit here is a secret. In fact, everything is a secret until I give you permission to make it public."

This time he left. Geoffrey had managed to drag one or two of the boxes away before Marion appeared. She reproached him gently that he had not waited for her. There might be spooks and bogies in those packages capable of harm.

"I dare say there are," Geoffrey laughed. "But you were such a long time. Every girl seems to imagine that an hour is like a piece of elastic—you can stretch it out as long as you like. At any rate I have done no harm. As far as I can judge there's only one good thing here."

"And what is that?" Marion asked. Geoffrey pointed to the floor.

"That one," he said. "The queer brass-bound box at the bottom."

CHAPTER XIV. "It Might Be You"

Marion caught her breath quickly. The marble pallor of her face showed up more strongly against her dark hair. Geoffrey caught the look and his eyes grew sympathetic.

"What's the matter, little girl?" he asked. "It isn't like you to faint."

"Neither am I going to faint, Geoff. But I had forgotten all about that box. I cannot go into details, for there are some things that we don't talk about to anybody. But that box is connected with rather an unhappy time in my youth."

"Hundreds of years ago," Geoffrey said flippantly.

"Oh, but it is no laughing matter, I assure you. When my mother was a child she was surrounded by all the craft and superstition of her race and religion. That was long before she got converted and married my father. I don't know how it was managed, but my mother never quite broke with her people, and once or twice, when she went to stay in Tibet, I accompanied her."

"My mother used to get restless at times, and then nothing would do but a visit to Tibet. And yet, at other times, nobody could possibly have told her from a European with foreign blood in her veins. For months and months she would be as English as you and I. Then the old fit would come over her."

"There was not a cleverer or more brilliant woman in India than my mother. When she died she gave me these things, and I was not to part with them. And, much as I should like to disobey, I cannot break that promise."

It seemed to Geoffrey that Marion spoke more regretfully than feelingly. He had never heard her say so much regarding her mother before. Affectionate and tender as Marion was, there was not the least trace of these characteristics in her tone now.

"Did you really love your mother?" Geoffrey asked suddenly.

"I always obeyed her," Marion stammered. "And I'd rather not discuss the subject, Geoff. Oh, they were bad people, my mother's ancestors. They possessed occult knowledge far beyond anything known or dreamt of by the wisest western savants. They could remove people mysteriously, they could strike at a long distance, they could wield unseen terrors. Such as the terrors that hang over Ravenspur, for instance."

Marion smiled sadly. Her manner changed suddenly and she was her old self again.

"Enough of horrors," she said. "I came here to help you. Come along." The boxes were carried below until only the brass-bound one remained. Geoffrey stooped to lift it. The wood was light and thin, the brass-work was the merest tracing.

A sudden guilty feeling came over Geoffrey as he raised it shoulder-high. He felt half inclined to defy his uncle Ralph and take the consequences. It seemed a mean advantage, a paltry gratifying of what, after all, might be mere curiosity.

But the vivid recollection of those strained, sightless eyes rose before him. Ralph Ravenspur was not the man to possess the petty vice of ir-repressible curiosity. Had it not been a woman he had to deal with, and Marion at that, Geoffrey would not have hesitated for a moment. Down below in the hall he heard the hollow rasp of Ralph's voice.

Geoffrey made up his mind grimly. He seemed to stumble forward, and the box fell from his shoulder, crashing down on the stone floor. The force of the shock simply shivered it in pieces, a great nest of grass and feathers dropped out, and from the inside a large mass of strange objects appeared.

"I am very sorry," Geoffrey stammered after the box had fallen.

"Never mind," she said, "accidents will happen."

But Geoffrey was rapt in the contemplation of what he saw before him—some score or more of ivory discs, each of which contained some painting; many of them appeared to be portraits.

Geoffrey picked up one of them and examined it curiously. He was regarding an ivory circle with a dark face of a beautiful fury.

"Why, this is you," Geoffrey cried. "If you could only give way to a curious cruel passion, it is you to the life."

"I had forgotten that," Marion gasped. "Of course, it is not me. See how old and stained the ivory is; hundreds of years old, it must be. Don't ask any more questions, but go and throw that thing in the sea. Never speak of the subject again."

Geoffrey promised. He strode out of the house and along the terrace. As he was descending the steps, a hand touched his arm. Ralph stood there.

"Give it me," he said, "at once."

"Give you what, uncle?"

"That ivory thing you have in your pocket. I felt certain it was there. Give it to me. Assume you have cast it over the cliffs. Marion will be as satisfied."

"But I promised Marion that—"

"Oh, I know. And if you knew everything, you would not hesitate for a moment to comply with my request."

"Uncle, I cannot do this thing."

A hard expression came over Ralph's face.

"Listen," he said in his rasping voice. "The lives and happiness of us all are at stake. The very existence of the woman you love is in your hands."

"I have schemed for this," he said. "I expected it. And now you are going to balk me. It is not as if I did not know what you possess."

"That is because you must have overheard my conversation with Marion."

"I admit it," Ralph said coolly. "I listened, of course. But you found it and I heard what I expected. It is for you to say whether the truth comes out or not."

"The truth, the truth," Geoffrey cried passionately. "It must out."

"Then give me that miniature. I'll ask you on my knees if you like."

There was an imploring ring in the speaker's voice. Geoffrey hesitated.

"If no harm is to come to Marion," he said. "I might break my word."

Ralph gripped him by the arm convulsively.

"I swear it," he whispered. "On my honor be it. Have I not told you before that not for all Ravenspur would I have a hair of that girl's head injured? If ever a man in this world meant anything, I mean that. The miniature, come!"

And Geoffrey, with a sigh, handed the ivory disc to Ralph.

CHAPTER XV.

Ralph Ravenspur's Conceit

"I should like to know why you wanted the ivory picture?"

It was Geoffrey who asked the question. He and Ralph Ravenspur were moving along the lanes that led up to the cliffs. They were deep lanes, with overhanging hedges on either side—lanes where it was not easy for two conveyances to pass.

"I dare say you would," Ralph replied. "But not at present. In due course you must know everything. Geoffrey, you are fond of novel reading?"

"Yes, especially books of the Gaboriau type. And yet, in all my reading, I never knew a more thrilling mystery than that of the ivory portrait."

"You had a good look at it, then?"

"Of course I did. The likeness to Marion was amazing. It might have been her own photograph on the ivory. It was the same, yet not the same. Marion transformed to an avenging fury."

"An ancestress of hers, no doubt?"

"Of course. The idea of it being Marion herself is out of the question."

"That you may dismiss at once," Ralph said. "The age of the medalion proves that and Marion is an angel."

"She is, Uncle Ralph. I am fearfully puzzled. What can Marion's queer ancestors and all that kind of thing have to do with our family terror?"

Ralph declined to say, beyond the fact that there was a connection. A horseman was coming pounding down the lane and he stepped aside instinctively.

"Jessop," he murmured. "I can tell by the trot of his horse."

Jessop, one of the farmers on the estate, it was. Geoffrey regarded his companion admiringly. He seemed to be able to dispense with eyes altogether. A long course of training in woodcraft stood him in good stead now. The apple-cheeked farmer pulled up so as to pass the squire's at a walking pace.

"Morning, Jessop," Geoffrey cried cheerfully. "Where are you going dressed in your best? And what are you doing with that feminine looking box?"

The big man grinned sheepishly. "Riding into town," he explained. "Fact is, missus and myself have got a lodger, a great lady, who's taken our drawing room and two bedrooms. They do say it's going to be the fashion for the 'quality' to spend their holidays right in 'country. It's a rare help to us these hard times."

Ralph Ravenspur turned round suddenly upon his nephew.

"Is it a fact?" he demanded. "Is it as Jessop says?"

"I believe so," Geoffrey replied. "I know that for the last five years the influx of visitors along this lonely coast has been steadily growing. It seems to have become quite the thing for good-class people to take cottages and farmhouses miles away from everywhere, but I have not heard of any of our tenants having them before."

A Western Poet

R. J. C. Stead, Who is Known as the Poet of the Prairies

Western Canada has every reason to be proud of Robert J. C. Stead, whose literary productions, both in poetry and prose, so cleverly and faithfully, reflect the life of the prairies, and which have placed this western country of ours on intimate acquaintance with readers all over the world. For a number of years Mr. Stead was editor of the Cartwright Review and the Crystal City Courier, and is at present engaged on the staff of the general publicity agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway Department of Natural Resources, Calgary. An interesting sketch of his life, together with a resume of his literary productions, appeared in a recent number of the Western Standard, from which the following is an excerpt:

"In the year 1903 began the literary history of this poet and author, when a short poem known as the "Empire Builders" was published in the Canadian Magazine. This beautiful poem dealt with such aspects of Canadian development that it was widely reprinted. Amongst others the Literary Digest, of New York, gave it instantaneous recognition. Encouraged by this, young Stead gave himself to the compilation of a volume of verse which was published in book form in 1908, under the title "Empire Builders." The years of intimate experience with the prairies, as expressed in these verses, made them profound in their appeal, made them fine and true in their feeling and observation. They were "born, not made," and they carry intense conviction with them. The Montreal Standard was right when it said: "Lines like these will live and explain to those who never saw the country what life on the prairie really meant. Such is the power of divine poetry." This book was a considerable success; it passed through four editions and was favorably reviewed by over two hundred representative publications. The principal elements which have won distinction for it are, an easy style, a strong patriotic appeal, a strong portrayal of those subtle influences that peculiarly belong to pioneer prairie life. This was followed by "Prairie Born" in 1911, and also a collection of his poems under the title "Songs of the Prairie." These had a large sale, and the book was taken up by publishers on both sides of the Atlantic. Mr. Stead has done much in these prairie poems to build up the true spirit of the Canadian west. It is true there is more in Canada than muscle and Rocky Mountains and no one has contributed more than Mr. Stead to the true national spirit of which the free, open, and fruitful prairie is such a convincing illustration.

Mr. Stead has recently entered the field of novel writers with a tale of Western Canada entitled "The Bail Jumper," which was published in England in June and in Canada in September. . . . The story is well worth reading; it is healthy, sound and inspiring; a strong story of human everyday life in the west presented in a popular and attractive way."

'Baiting' Railways

Popular Prejudice Against the Railways Results in Harm to the Country

In the past, Canada has learned many lessons of importance from the experience of her nearest neighbor, the United States. While the Canadian people are always disposed to act with independence, they are not short-sighted enough to reject what may be learned with profit from another country very similar in nature to this one. A few weeks ago, the Interstate Commerce Commission of the United States handed out a decision granting to the railway companies in certain sections the right to increase their rates. A few years ago any such decision would have aroused a storm of protest. The recent decision was accepted, generally, in such good part as to suggest that the public is being educated in economic truths.

President Woodrow Wilson, who is one of the leading economists of his day, sometimes hands out hints to the public along with his messages. One of these he handed out when he first mentioned the subject of freight rate increases. He said the prosperity of the country is bound up with the prosperity of the railways. He suggested that the public, in hurting the railways were hurting themselves. Justice for the railways was justice for the public also.

Big industries, like some big men, are sometimes not in popular favor with the general public. They are expected to give evidence of generosity to all and sundry; otherwise, they are roundly condemned. They lend themselves to the critical uses of cartooning. Such has been the experience of the United States. But the United States is learning what an expensive habit railway-baiting is, and is quick to profit by the lesson. In the last election, the remarkable gains of the Republican party, once shot and apparently killed because it was believed to be a friend of the "big interests," has been interpreted by all disinterested political experts in the United States as sufficient evidence that the nagging of business just because nagging was popular and not because business was guilty of sin, had begun to pall on the American public.

When an application by the Canadian railway companies for permission to increase their freight rates is before the board of railway commissioners, it is timely to point out that the great danger both the railways and the public have to fear is popular prejudice against the railways. Let such prejudice take form, and it will be extremely hard for justice to be done, with the result that the railways will suffer and the country with them.—Montreal Evening News.

Better Times in Sight

Trade Commissioner Says Canada Has Seen the Worst

Addressing the London chamber of commerce on trade with the Dominion of Canada and the Empire, Hamilton Wicks, the trade commissioner, expressed the opinion that Canada knew the worst and was now moving forward to better things. He expected the harvest of 1915 would do a great deal to relieve the situation, but the relief would not be fully realized until 1916, hence the watchword for the immediate future should be one of caution.

In comparing business methods Mr. Wicks said the average Britisher was neither inquisitive nor acquisitive as regards available information, and while intensely self-reliant in some directions he was strangely diffident to his powers in others. As a manufacturer, the Britisher was without a peer; as a salesman he was without a knowledge of the markets or the science of selling as compared with his foreign neighbors. After explaining certain difficulties in connection with Canadian trade, Mr. Wicks offered general suggestions for improvement of overseas trade, amongst which were the organization of an intelligence department on a big scale and the registration of firms; also better co-operation between banker and manufacturers.

A declaration against the enticement at the present time of skilled laborers to emigrate, which was to the detriment of home industries, was applauded.

HAIR CAME OUT IN GREAT COMBFULS

Little Hills of Dandruff Itched Badly on Child's Scalp. Would Burn, Itch and Smart. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Healed.

Glen Sutton, Que.—"My daughter's scalp was affected. It would come in bunches on top of her head as big as the end of my finger. The eruption was like little hills of dandruff which itched very badly; she would scratch till her scalp would bleed. Then it would burn and smart. Her hair would be all fastened together with a white powder-like substance. Her hair did not grow well and was very thin. It came out in great combfuls every time she combed it."

"I put on the Cuticura Ointment at night and in the morning would wash it with warm water and Cuticura Soap. She is completely cured."

"My second daughter was troubled with a breaking out on her back. When she would get heated up it would prick just like pins. I used Cuticura Ointment on her back, then washed it in the morning with the Cuticura Soap and they cured it."

Wit of the Force

The policeman had a gambler by the arm and was waiting for the patrol wagon to arrive.

"What are you doing?" asked a friend of the officer who happened to be passing.

"I am holding a card party," replied the cop.

Mark Twain was once standing in a crowded street car, hanging to a strap. As the car swung round a corner the strap broke, landing him in the lap of a well-dressed woman. The humorist rose and bowed.

"Madam," said he, "this is the first time the street car company ever conferred a favor on me."

Modern Farms

Benefits to be Derived From Demonstration Farms

Mr. Cahill of Saskatoon, speaking to a morning paper, says the farmers of Saskatchewan know more about legislation than the members of parliament do. Whether correct or not, that is a very common opinion among those farmers. Mr. Cahill, however, does not, like some of them, resent efforts on the part of government to spread agricultural knowledge. On the contrary, he says either the federal or the provincial government should have a model farm every thirty miles, run by trained men from the agricultural colleges. He takes it for granted that this could be done without cost to the country. If farming can be made to pay, surely model farming should pay better. That sounds elementary; and yet it is wonderful how seldom government things do pay. Even if the usual leaks and incompetencies of government service such as political appointments and political purchasing at the instance of local political bosses, were entirely eliminated, it might be wise to do some things on a model farm that would not pay. Experiments and demonstrations take more in labor than they return in cash. The farm might perhaps be used to some extent as a place of useful service for prisoners on parole, and these might perhaps need more coaching than their work would pay for, though on the other hand it would relieve the government of their keep in prison. It has been found in practice that prisoners so treated do not need much watching. There must be enough of truth in Mr. Cahill's calculation to command respect for so sensible a proposal. The farms would need at any rate to show profitable culture in a way to convince onlookers. It is said that wherever there is a model farm in the States its influence is visible on agricultural productivity and prosperity for a day's journey round it. Rightly worked, could any proposal be more promising for the good of the country than such a systematic inoculation of the soil with the knowledge microbe?—Montreal Witness.

A Good Medicine For the Spring

Do Not Use Harsh Purgatives—A Tonic is All You Need

Not exactly sick—but not feeling quite well. That is the way most people feel in the spring. Easily tired, appetite flake, sometimes headaches, and a feeling of depression. Pimples or eruptions may appear on the skin, or there may be twinges of rheumatism or neuralgia. Any of these indicate that the blood is out of order—that the indoor life of winter has left its mark upon you and may easily develop into more serious trouble.

Do not dose yourself with purgatives, as so many people do, in the hope that you can put your blood right. Purgatives gallop through the system and weaken instead of giving strength. Any doctor will tell you this is true. What you need in spring is a tonic that will make new blood and build up the nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the only medicine that can do this speedily, safely and surely. Every dose of this medicine makes new blood which clears the skin, strengthens the appetite and makes tired, depressed men, women and children bright, active and strong. Mrs. S. E. Stephens, Ponoka, Alta., says: "I suffered severely from headaches and was badly run down in health. I had tried several remedies with no benefit, until I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I can recommend them with confidence to all weak women." Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Wayside Jottings

It is well enough to grow crops. If when we come to sell the stuff, however, we allow the other fellow to trim us, where is the advantage in producing more.

In New Brunswick farmers are selling their potatoes at thirty-five cents a barrel. In Montreal the consumers are paying their grocers one dollar and eighty cents a barrel. In other words, the Montreal consumer is paying five times what the New Brunswick producer receives. Can such a spread in price be justified?

There is a world of difference between living and making a living. Many make a splendid living but really never live. They get their viewpoint distorted. They come to regard the making of a living as the first object of living. Those who get the most true joy out of life are those who regard the accumulation of material necessities as of importance only in so far as it enables them to enjoy life.—Farm and Dairy.

One of the commonest complaints of infants is worms, and the most effective application for them is Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

"I see yer spring-cleaning, Mrs. Samson."
"Just that, Mrs. McPherson. There's naethin' like gien things a turn aboot at times. Losh! dae ye ken, I've just come across a pair o' slippers under the bed I hivna seen for twenty years!"

"Do you suppose we shall ever have universal peace?"
"Hardly. I fancy marriage will never be entirely abolished."

GILLETT'S LYE EATS DIRT

Britain's Mosquito Fleet

Important Part Played by Trawlers in Naval Warfare

Steam trawlers play an important but little-known part in the present war. Thousands of these fishing vessels are now engaged in mine sweeping, in protecting battleships from hostile submarines, and in military operations against the Germans in the shallows of the Belgian coast. After the German raid on Scarborough and other English east coast towns in December, steam trawlers picked up no less than 1,500 floating mines in a week. The work is dangerous, for many of the German mines, with their bristling contact points, explode in the nets.

Nothing affords such protection against submarines as a cordon of trawlers round a fleet. The submarines must come close to be effective, and on rising to the surface to use the periscope, they are easily detected by the trawlers. There is also the chance that they will get in a shot at what the navy calls 'tin whales.'

A large fleet of trawlers will soon take part in the Belgian coast operations, and some already are there. They carry one gun forward, another aft, and two abeam.

The weapons are quick-firers of comparatively small calibre, but the boats, sailing in close under the lee of the sand dunes and increasing the general volume of fire, help to prevent enemy guns from taking a base along the shore, and making a direct target of the big monitors and cruisers.

Keep Minard's Liniment in the house.

One day a tall, gaunt woman, with rope colored hair and an expression of great fierceness, strode into the office of a county clerk in West Virginia. "You, sir, are the person that keeps the marriage books, ain't ye?" she demanded.

"What book do you wish to see, madam?" asked the polite clerk.

"Kin you find out if Jim Jones was married?"

Search of the records disclosed the name of James Jones, for whose marriage a license had been issued two years before.

"Married Elizabeth Mott, didn't he?" asked the woman.

"The license was issued for a marriage with Miss Elizabeth Mott."

"Well, young man, I'm Elizabeth. I thought I oughter come in an' tell ye that Jim has escaped!"

Lady Visitor—That's a badly wounded soldier—what are you going to do with him?

Orderly—Oh, 'e's goin' back again to the front.

Lady Visitor—Good heavens—what-ever for?

Orderly—'E thinks 'e knows who done it—London Opinion.

"Dad, what do they call a man who eats only vegetables?"

"A vegetarian, son."

"And one who eats people?"

"A humanitarian. Now run along and play!"

Careful Doctor

Prescribed Change of Food Instead of Drugs

It takes considerable courage for a doctor to deliberately prescribe only food for a despairing patient, instead of resorting to the usual list of medicines.

Some truly scientific physicians recognize and treat conditions as they are and should be treated. Here's an instance:

"Four years ago I was taken with severe gastritis and nothing would stay on my stomach, so that I was on the verge of starvation."

"I heard of a doctor who had a summer cottage near me—a specialist—and, as a last hope, sent for him."

"After he examined me carefully he advised me to try a small quantity of Grape-Nuts at first, then as my stomach became stronger to eat more."

"I kept at it and gradually began to have color in my face, memory became clear, where before everything seemed a blank. My limbs got stronger and I could walk. So I steadily recovered."

"Now, after a year on Grape-Nuts I weigh 153 lbs. My people were surprised at the way I grew fleshy and strong on this food."

Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont. Read, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Extending Cultivation

Possibilities of the Canadian West as a Grain Producer

Having unlimited faith in our province and the sister provinces of this great northwest, we are rather too ready to proclaim that we are the granary of the empire. As a matter of fact we are only a spout, though, if we understood our true interests we may become a very much larger one. Great Britain imports about 230,000,000 bushels of wheat each year, in addition to the 70,000,000 bushels she raises. Of this quantity Canada contributes a little less than does the Argentine, and a little more than either Australasia or the United States, about two-thirds as much as Russia and not much more than half what India ships to the British consumer.

Yet there are hundreds of thousands of good acres of land as yet untitled in the northwest, and there is no reason why they should not supply a very much greater percentage of England's wheat supply than now during the present year, and probably for several successive years. Canadian farmers are sure of good, perhaps high prices, for all the grain they have to sell.

These facts are evidently recognized by many young men, as the number of homesteads taken up this season is largely in excess of those taken up last year. It is probable that many will take the present opportunity of advancing their fortunes by leaving the city, where the struggle has been over hard, and turning to a pursuit that can never be overdone, and which never refuses a decent living to a vigorous man—Winnipeg Telegram.

Miller's Worm Powders never fail. They immediately attack the worms and expel them from the system. They are complete in themselves, not only as a worm destroyer, but as a highly beneficial medicine for children, correcting weak digestion and restoring the debilitated system to healthfulness, without which the growth of the child will be retarded and its constitution weakened.

Getting Monotonous

Little John was full of mischief and during his first year at school hardly a day passed that he was not sent to stand in the corner.

When the school house burned down and a new one was immediately begun, the little boy went to his father, who was county superintendent.

"Don't you think we could get the carpenter to build a round school-house this time, father?" he said.

"Why, son?" his father asked, in astonishment.

"Because," the little fellow answered, "I'm getting tired of corners."

$100 REWARD, $100
The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

War's Effect on Farming

Farming was looking up before the war, but that great event has done far more than merely accelerate the previous movement. It has brought within the comprehension of town folks, to whom the land question was interesting mainly as an occasion for attacking dukes, the national importance of increasing our homegrown supply of food. The impression would be far greater if the circumstances were better understood. The navy has screened us so well from danger that we are only faintly aware of a pack of wolves on the other side. But the idea of the German submarine "blockade" has had some educational value.—London Times.

Minard's Liniment used by Physicians.

Canada's Commercial Schools

Canada is finding her rural school fairly profitable for advancing knowledge of agriculture among children of school age. These schools were started as an innovation less than a decade ago but in 1914 there were 143 of them held in Ontario, covering practically all the rural schools of the province. Pupils entered in these schools numbered 75,000, and in the competitions 23,000 plots of ground were worked by the children. It is said the influence is materially beneficial in increasing interest in farm work.—Buffalo Commercial.

Your Asthma, Too.—The efficacy of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is not something that is merely to be hoped for; it is to be expected. It never fails to bring relief, and in your own individual case it will do the same. So universal has been the success of this far-famed cure that every one afflicted with this disease owes it to himself to try it.

WOMAN IN TERRIBLE STATE

Finds Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cape Wolfe, Canada.—"Last March I was a complete wreck. I had given up all hope of getting better or living any length of time, as I was such a sufferer from female troubles. But I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am in good health and have a pair of twin boys two months old and growing finely. I surprised doctors and neighbors for they all know what a wreck I was."

"Now I am healthy, happy and hearty, and owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies. You may publish this letter if you like. I think if more women used your remedies they would have better health."—Mrs. J. T. Cook, Lot No. 7, Cape Wolfe, P.E.I., Canada.

Because your case is a difficult one, and doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has remedied many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and it may be exactly what you need.

The Pinkham record is a proud and peerless one. It is a record of constant victory over the obstinate ills of women—ills that deal out despair. It is an established fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored health to thousands of such suffering women. Why don't you try it if you need such a medicine?
